Four New Buildings Now Ready .. More Coming

BY DAVE GRAY

When many of us arrived on this campus for the first time two years ago we were greeted by a sight which was very different from the one which greeted you today. The Arts Building stood high on a hill by itself. Nothing near it. South of it along a narrow asphalt drive-way was Willison. Ivy covering its old historic walls. Jutting out from it was Conrad—the largest women's residence on campus. Twenty girls lived there in communal houses. The Senior girls' residence at the time was at 210 Albert St. right next door to the business Administration Department which was housed as it is now at 214. Together these buildings comprised the campus of W.L.U. A record Frosh Class swept in that year and swelled the enrollment to a new record high. We had nearly 650 students! In the early fifties enrollment was only a meagre 200.

Just five months after our arrival things began to happen. One day in the Music Room during Chapel Mr. Hermansen announced that the firm of Kruschen and Daily had been commissioned by the Board of Governors to create a new and dynamic university campus. Our expansion program was under way. In October the first fifty girls moved into the new, half-million dollar residence at 25 Dearborn St. No sooner had the building been dedicated than ground was broken for the $85,000 Student Union Bldg. and the $156,000 Gymnasium-Auditorium. We watched eagerly as these buildings slowly took shape through the winter months and cursed when part of the east wall of the auditorium blew down one night. Spring came and exams impeded our interest.

An appeal for a new Seminary Bldg. was launched with an objective of $400,000. The enthusiasm was expected and we were over-subscribed to twice the amount desired. During the early stages of the summer an additional parcel of land containing seven buildings was purchased. The houses will shortly be torn down in order to make way for the new Seminary Building which will start shortly. During the Summer the Student Union and the Auditorium were completed as were a new Dining Hall and Men's Residence. No sooner had this occurred than residence space was acute. An addition was started to the Women's Residence and a new residence for men will be finished by late January of 1963.

This has been a phenomenal period of expansion in the short life of W.L.U. Within a period of a year and one half five buildings have been completed and three more have got under way. An addition to the Arts Building and a new Library are planned for next summer.

Today we hear a great deal about the need for increased higher educational facilities. Many of the universities of Canada seem content to raise their admission standards and maintain present enrollment. Thank goodness that the administration of W.L.U. has had the foresight to expand its facilities in an effort to give characters like you and me an opportunity to try our hand at university curriculum.

You will be able to find your way around our campus by using this map as a guide. The buildings numbered 1 to 9 already exist and are either completely finished, or will be complete within the next few days. The buildings lettered A to G are projected Buildings. Our artist has taken considerable license with the future buildings and they may not look like this in their completed form. We should also draw your attention to the fact that the new Seminary complex (C) is not located exactly geographically. There will be some demolition of existing buildings in that corner of campus before the Seminary building is started.

- (1) and (2) are the two wings of the existing women's residence, the first building you strike coming up the hill from King Street.
- (3) is the theatre-auditorium. This is the building where you registered. With its 1400 seating capacity, the new auditorium will be used for general assemblies, chapel, sports and gymnasium. It is also ideal for theatrical presentations.
- (4) This is the new men's residence which is just going into operation.
- (5) is our own special corner of the campus, the students' union building. In it are the offices of the student council, the Board of Publications, the bookstore, a meeting room, a co-ed lounge, and a games room.
- (6) is the new dining hall. This is where Millie reigns supreme and dispenses those high high calorie meals at the low low cost.
- (7) The Arts building. Here you will find most of the University's lecture halls and that oasis in the desert of knowledge, "the Torque Room".
- (8) Willison Hall, the original Waterloo College, presently is the home of our Seminary and Library and is partly a men's residence. This is our only genuine ivy league building.

- (9) is Conrad Hall. Our whole institution started in this building in 1911. Originally a seminary, the good boys moved out to make room for good girls when it became a women's residence. The good girls have now moved on to a much larger residence and now senior students who must be good or they wouldn't be seniors, inhabit Conrad Hall.

BUILDINGS TO COME:

- (A) The new Wing of the women's residence. You can already see a good start on the walls of this building. Be careful not to fall into the excavation if you are sneaking around the women's residence after dark.
- (B) We will have to call this the new, new men's residence if we call number 4 the new men's residence. This building is coming along nicely and it is hoped that it will be in use for the second semester.
- (C) We had the artist go a little light on this one, as we are not too sure how it will really look in its finished form. This is the new Seminary complex for which the Lutheran Church just raised $840,000. How about a Seminary with a swimming pool?
- (D) Once the demand for teaching and residence facilities become assuaged, the Board of Governors plan a suitable chapel to take care of the spiritual needs of this campus.
- (E) Additional teaching facilities. These are earmarked for early construction.
- (F) The new Library, another building with a high priority.
- (G) If everything else works out this will be the administration building where our hard-working president and his staff will have room to sit down and see what they have accomplished.

A Message From The President Of Student Council

Welcome back to those students who have previously attended W.U.C. and to those who are attending this university for the first time, a special welcome. As will be apparent our institution has grown both in total enrollment and in facilities.

Large as these gains have been it is only an indication of things to come.

There can be no growth, however, without growing pains and these must be borne by everyone. That something is being done about the cramped class-rooms and inadequate residences can be seen by the addition, now under construction, to the only recently completed New Women's Residence. The men, too, building and it shall be administered and its facilities enjoyed, solely by them. The Student Board of Governors, its administrative executive under council, is at present planning an ambitious program to make full use of these facilities.

Perhaps the most magnificent building on campus is the Gymnasium with a seating capacity of eleven hundred and a modern stage with complete facilities. With this new building providing space for school assemblies and social functions, there can be no excuse for lack of school spirit.

During the second week of classes there will be re-election among the sophs, juniors and seniors for the Vice-Presidency of Student Council; for the juniors and frosh there will be class elections. Choose your candidates carefully, appreciate their platforms, attend campaign speeches, and then vote for your choice.

Finally, a few words of advice to the Frosh Class. You are the largest in numbers to ever attend W.U.C.

Changes In Registration

A student is considered enrolled in a course if a class slip has been completed and the course entered on the registration card.
CHANGES IN REGISTRATION;

- a) A change in the section of a course you are taking must be reported to the Registrar's Office.
- b) A student may not add, drop, or change a course without the permission of the Dean or Registrar.
- c) The last day for any change in registration is WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31. Any course dropped after this date will normally be recorded as a failure.

REPORTING OF REGISTRATION CHANGES;

Please report any changes to the Registrar's office any time AFTER WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 26. Give us time to get over the registration confusion before change confusion begins.

COMPLETE STAFF WILL BE ANNOUNCED SHORTLY

Dividends For Frosh

The staff of the Cord Weekly would like to extend a hearty welcome to the Class of '66. We hope that your tenure here at W.U.C. will be memorable and fruitful; and that the investment which you are now making in your future will yield dividends of the highest magnitude.

University life means more than just books, lectures, degrees, and hard work. It is filled with extra-curricular activities, with new friendships, with formidable challenges, and with unlimited opportunities to invest in a "blue chip" future. It is a way of life which is new to you. You are part of an exclusive minority which is privileged to experience it; to invest in it. Whether or not your investment pays off is up to you.

Many of you will be tempted to jump into the "Fun" aspects of university life. You'll be involved in too many activities. You'll be a "softie" who will volunteer to help out in order to be a "good Joe". You'll fritter away time in the beverage rooms when you should be working. You'll get behind in your work, and unless you snap out of it, you'll never catch up. One day in June you'll receive the results of your investment. "Failed to clear two thirds of courses taken. No supplemental or summer school privileges. May repeat."

The returns on such an investment are puny. Remember, whether you invest in the stock market or in a university education, the only way to achieve a high dividend is through wise planning. Organize your time carefully, limit yourself to only a few extra-curricular activities, do your assignments faithfully, review constantly, and DON'T waste time. By so doing, you'll enjoy "blue chip" investing which will pay huge dividends throughout your entire life. Make sure your stocks rise this year!

Enjoy Your Student Union Building

There's no limit to the number of table tennis games you can play during a day in our new Student Union. Provided your scholastic record can stand it, there's no limit either to the number of Union activities you can join.

The Union Board of Governors is responsible for planning these activities and establishing house rules and regulations for the Union. Through an extensive organization of committees, the Board will be providing an activity program designed to make campus living more meaningful, educational and enjoyable. All students are encouraged to recommend new program ideas. Students are especially invited to serve on one of the Board's activity committees. Many opportunities for leadership are available to the willing and able. Information about these opportunities may be obtained from the Undergraduate Chairman who is serving as Acting Chairman of the Union Board of Governors.

Student members of the Board direct areas of the activity program which include special events, recreation, fine arts, and social. The four standing committees consist of the house and finance, personnel, public relations, and program committees.

Presently the Board is striving for a diversified and high quality program which is open to the school year. They will always try to offer the greatest service to the greatest number of students. Our hope is to make the Union the heart of campus living here at Waterloo University College. It can become a centre of social, recreational, and cultural activities—truly a living-room of the campus.

Our Union will represent a comprehensive, well-considered plan for the community life of the College student. You are encouraged to take part in its activities and are invited to use its facilities and services to the fullest.

NFCUS is Important to You

Waterloo University College is a member of the National Federation of Canadian University Students, a union of 38 Canadian universities representing over 90,000 students. NFCUS was created in 1926 to "express and to strengthen the Canadian students' consciousness of himself as a student and as a Canadian, to give him an identity and a voice that could be found only in unity." In effect a federation of local student governments, it promotes a better understanding among Canadian students, institutes a greater degree of cooperation among all student organizations, advances student interests, and develops relationships with other national and international student groups.

NFCUS is involved in both national and international affairs. It promotes a student exchange, a work camp in Chile, and a N.A.T.O. international youth seminar.

At the present time NFCUS national affairs cover eight different fields. It promotes a national and many regional seminars, a life insurance plan which is the cheapest in North America, is organizing a student government research and information centre, promotes a literary contest which was won by one of our students last year. In addition it makes representations to the government, concerning student travel educations, government immigration policy for students, and income tax exemptions for students.

NFCUS is worthy of your time and consideration. It is not just another club on campus but it is your student government's representative in the national and the international field. To be effective, we need the support of everyone on campus. Therefore, we ask the Freshman Class to give careful consideration to the person whom it wants to represent it on the local NFCUS committee.

PAT YANTHA,
NFCUS President.

A Welcome from University
President William J. Villaume

Welcome, new and returning students!

Four new buildings were completed this summer, and two more will be ready for occupancy in the second semester. The appearance of the campus has changed since the last academic year; so has its essence.

New professors will bring rich contributions to our academic community, but the faces of others will be missed by returning students. Many, too, will look in vain for classmates—close friends, perhaps only to find that they did not make the grade. We shall think of them often and wonder how they are faring. If only they had not torn themselves apart in fidelities to the hundreds of little claims that seemed important, they might not be among the multitude that ran but never attained.

Haltingly and awkwardly I am trying to convey that an unconscious freewheeling acceleration that rolls on at more impressive speed as the academic year progresses may lead only to disaster. An international paint company advertises that it "Covers the Earth." What nonsense! Yet, students try every year.

The major task of a "student" is inherent in that honored word. He has available for study as many hours in a day, minutes in an hour and seconds in a minute as the most productive scholar who ever lived. Wise husbanding of time (an endowment differing from most others in that once expended it can never be recovered) is of the essence of success. A simple German proverb expresses it well:

"Zeit hat der nur nicht, der seine Zeit nicht ausnützt."

(He alone lacks time who does not fully occupy his hours.)

This is the time of year to set up a short catalogue of the disciplines essential to a successful academic year. May I suggest a few to stimulate your thinking?

1. The discipline of study. Our vocation calls for us to be book-minded; to live with thoughts of the world's great thinkers.
2. The discipline of acceptance. We must learn to accept ourselves and the academic community which we have chosen to enter.

3. The discipline of settling down. "So live in every place where you sojourn as though you meant to spend your whole life there, never missing an opportunity to speak a true word, to do a kind act or to make a friend."
4. The discipline of forgiveness. Broken relationships and harboured grudges are destroyers of efficiency.
5. The discipline of appreciation. Honest effort by other people, at any level of excellence, deserves appreciation. Appreciation spurs creativity.
6. The discipline of orderliness. "Peace is the child of order"—St. Augustine.
7. The discipline of sifting. Select your extracurricular activities with care. "The essence of genius is knowing what to overlook"—Wm. James. Don't be glued to a desk, but beware of giving yourself a plausible excuse for failure.
8. The discipline of repose. Read repeatedly John Greenleaf Whittier's "The Eternal Goodness," of which the hymn "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind" is the singing heart. "Take from our souls the strain and stress, and let our ordered lives confess the beauty of Thy peace."
9. The discipline of worship. At the heart of this Christian community of learning is the joyful acknowledgment of God's eternal goodness. We seek the truth of divine revelation as well as that garnered by our own critical inquiry. Pray daily. Attend chapel as regularly as you attend classes. God is not less important than professors.

10. The discipline of hope. How dramatically and unexpectedly God's providences frequently sweep into life righting in a moment what has thwarted us so long.

A Busy Library

In his annual library report for the year ending June 30, 1962 university librarian Erich Schultz notes that circulation had nearly doubled over the previous year. For the period covered in the report circulation was 40,942. Circulation in the previous year was 21,560. An increase of 8,572 was noted for the Upper Library while the Lower Library increased by just under eleven thousand.

The library increased the number of pamphlets it received to 975. The government documents collection which is housed in Room 107 of

Talent For Purple & Gold Show Wanted

Well, here we are back again at W.U.C. If you are like me you are already looking forward with anticipation to this year's many and varied activities. One of the biggest events of the year is the annual Purple and Gold Show. Last year P. & G. presented a very entertaining and successful revue. This year we are planning a different type of show than has been produced in the recent past. It will be a musical comedy which will be suitable for everyone from the kiddies to the great-grand parents. Keep your eye peeled for more news regarding the show.

Incidentally, in order to make YOUR SHOW a great success for your college, it is absolutely essential that you help. We are having the show in the middle of November in order that it will not take up too much of your study time.

Below I have listed some of the fields in which people will be needed. If you are at all interested in helping your P. & G. become a success, please cut the bottom coupon, check off the part in which you would like to assist, and either put it in the P. & G. mail box at the foot of the stairs in the Arts Building or give it to Fred Burgess, the assistant producer, or myself.

Let's make this year's P. & G. the best one yet!

1962-63 Producer.

Wilson Hall increased by 1,265 to 1,588. For the same period 3,491 books were added to College and 910 were added to the Seminary.

Greater use was made of the library loan service in the past year. This service enables students and faculty to borrow books from the libraries of other universities. Requests answered by W.L.U. rose from 20 to 41 while requests by our students and faculty rose to 588, an increase of 128 over the previous year.

At the convention of the Canadian Library Association held in June in Ottawa, Mrs. E. Adamson of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics informed the university librarians that bound periodicals were to be included in the library holdings. By using a standard library formula Prof. Schultz calculated that the College has approximately 1,410 unbound volumes and the Seminary 190. The total library collection in-

Your Dean of Students Bids You Welcome!

Welcome to Waterloo! You will hear this more and more from many when you arrive, and we do welcome you all. Congratulations too, on coming through "grade 13", although some of you may yet be licking the wounds inflicted in the process. All of you, however, will agree that the experience was indeed a challenging one. I will not minimize the experience of taking standardized tests, but I contend that a great challenge awaits you when you arrive at Waterloo. It will be quite different here. There will be no disciplining, watchful eye of mom or dad; there will be no teachers "training" you in test-taking behaviours; and there will be very few clearly "right or wrong" answers to important questions. Through high school you may have responded to goals which were confusedly not your own. At Waterloo, you will be given many opportunities to explore your own goals, capacities, and potentialities, so that ultimately you will emerge with a value system unmistakably your own and wrought through three or four years in our intellectual-spiritual environment.

We hope to make you critical men and women, and by a systematic exposure to that which is fine, we hope finally, that that which is second-rate will be unattractive. We want you to become tolerant, not merely gullible; humble, not simply confused; sophisticated, not apathetic; and strongly individualistic, not simply social chameleons lost in the changing hues of social pressures. At the outset this appears to be quite an order, but to help you in this quest our faculty—a dedicated and faithful body of teachers—will help you increase your own usefulness by inviting a full use of your individual intellectual capacities, social controls and spiritual potentials.

Finally, I would like to remind you of one other important consideration. Your admission to Waterloo University College is an implicit statement of the faith that we have in your abilities as individuals. This then becomes something on which you can build your academic careers. We exist here to serve you in whatever way we can and to make your individual quests more meaningful. Welcome to Waterloo!

D. M. MORGENSON
Dean of Students

Placement Bureau Will Aid Students

Many students need additional funds to get through their academic year. The new office of placement services here on campus is in the process of locating specific part-time work that will help defray a part of the cost of a college education. At the present time the outlook is bright for those who desire part-time employment, besides a number of on-campus work assignments. Various Kitchener-Waterloo area firms are showing interest in employing college students on a part-time basis during the school year.

The placement services office is also formulating a placement program for graduating seniors and alumni. There are a number of specific majors or fields of concentration here at Waterloo. With the exception of those students concentrating their study in the more technical fields, most of our future graduates will find they are not hired in terms of their individual majors, but rather on the basis of being college graduates.

A rather interesting recruiting tool which is coming into use is the placement of promising students at the second year level or below in summer and part-time work often of a training nature. The companies, of course, hope to employ these men permanently after graduation.

The Office of Placement Services is located in the basement of the Student Union Building. Mr. Haggstrom, the Director of Placement Services, can save your time, minimize your effort, and, in the final analysis, protect your future by using his experience in terms of your capabilities.

Established to be of service to seniors, alumni, and undergraduates, your placement office should be one of the first places to visit on campus whether you are looking for your first career position, contemplating changing jobs, or just seeking part-time work.

Mr. Stuart A. Harris is joining the Faculty as Assistant Professor of Geography and Geology. He comes to Waterloo from the University of Chicago where he was Assistant Professor; both the B.Sc. and M.Sc. degrees were completed at Queen Mary College, University of London, with Geology as a major and Geography as a minor. A native of England, who has travelled extensively, Mr. Harris will add to the cosmopolitan character of our Geography-Geology Department.

Last but not least, the Department is completed by Mr. J. Chadwick Day as Lecturer in Geography and Geology. A lecturer at Waterloo University College, in 1960-61, Mr. Day has just completed additional studies in Geography at the University of Western Ontario.

LANGUAGES

Rev. Norman E. Wagner has been appointed as assistant professor of Hebrew and Chairman of that department. Rev. Wagner received his B.A. from the University of Saskatchewan, his B.D. from the Luther Theological Seminary, Saskatoon, his M.A. from the University of Toronto, and is a candidate for his Ph.D. from that University. Rev. Wagner comes to Waterloo Lutheran University from Maple, Ontario, where he was pastor of Zion Lutheran Church.

Dean Schaus also announced the appointment of a visiting professor of German, Professor, John Alvin Surerus and a visiting lecturer in French, Madame Odile Martz-Perier.

Professor Surerus attended Victoria College, University of Toronto and the University of Chicago Graduate School. From 1932 to 1962 Professor Surerus served on the Faculty of Victoria College as professor of Germanic languages and head of the German Department. He is President of the Canadian Association of University Teachers of German and is also President of the Toronto Branch of the English Goethe Society.

Madame Perier studied at the University of Nantes and the University of Paris, France. She has served as a cultural attache in Peru and Canada.

CLASSICS AND PHILOSOPHY

Mr. Donald M. Berry has been appointed lecturer in the Classics Department; Mr. Berry received his B.A. from Waterloo College and his M.A. from the University of Manitoba. Mr. Tobias H. Chapman has been appointed to the Department of Philosophy. He received his B.A. and his M.A. degrees from the University of Western Ontario.

ECONOMICS

Mr. Philip Basil Healey has accepted a position with the Department of Economics and Business Administration. He will serve as assistant professor of Business Administration. A native of London, Mr. Healey received his B.A. from the University of Western Ontario, his M.B.A. from the University of Detroit and his M.A. from the University of Michigan. He is currently completing the writing of his dissertation for a Ph.D. in Finance at Michigan State University. Mr. Healey was on the Faculty of the Department of Economics at the University of Detroit and the University of Michigan and has served as assistant instructor at Michigan State University in its College of Business and Public Services, where he lectured in investment analysis, finance and accounting.

Faculty Appointments

Appointments to the Department of Geography, Geology and Planning were recently announced by the Board of Governors. The new chairman of the Department of Geography is Dr. John H. McMurry, who comes here from the Department of Geography at Florida State University.

Dr. McMurry was educated at the University of Michigan in Geology, Public Administration and Geography. He has also been on the Faculty of Michigan State University and has spent the current summer as visiting professor of Geography at the University of Michigan. An extensive contributor to Geography and planning periodicals, Dr. McMurry has been associated with numerous conservation and resources agencies in Michigan and Florida.

Dr. Pradyumna P. Karan has been appointed as associate Professor of Geography. A native of India, Dr. Karan, took his B.A. degree at Batna University in Honors Economics, his M.A. in Economic Geography at Benares University and his Ph.D. at Indiana University. Dr. Karan is coming to Waterloo University College from the University of Kentucky where he has been lecturing on Regional Geography of South Asia.

Three additional staff appointments complete the Faculty. Mr. Harold F. Keuper is joining the staff as assistant professor of Geography and Planning. Mr. Keuper received his M.A. degree from Clark University in Urban and Economic Geography. For a time he was research Geographer for Rand-McNally & Co. and later Assistant Director of Planning for the city of Waukesha, Wisconsin.

Waterloo Is A Musical Campus

New music courses have been added to the curriculum this year. Freshman and upperclass students who are interested in music will want to consider enrolling in Music 20 (The Art of Music), an introductory course in music designed to acquaint the student with the principal great works of music, or in Music 30 (Theory), a course in harmony, ear training and sight singing. Instruction in piano and organ can be arranged with Mr. McClain.

The A Cappella Choir, a mixed choir of about 40 voices directed by Mr. McClain, is open to all students of the college. This choir, which sings for many events on the campus, goes on tour for a week in the spring and will give two home concerts this year—one at Christmas and one in the spring. The choir will also sing for some of the college chapel services.

A portion of this year's concert program will be centered on musical settings of the psalms. Groups of spirituals, folksongs, and some pieces by contemporary composers will also be included. The choir rehearses on Mondays and Wednesdays at 5:00 and at one other hour to be arranged. Auditions for membership will be held in the Music Room on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 17-19. Consult your orientation schedule and the bulletin boards for the exact times. The first rehearsal will be Monday, Sept 24th in the Music Room. All students interested in singing are invited to audition.

The Men's Glee Club, directed by Dr. Dolbeer, is open to all male students of the college. This group, which sings both sacred and secular music, will give a spring concert and sing for some of the college activities.

The College Band, which plays for athletic events, welcomes new members. Some brass instruments are provided by the college for those who may not own their own. Rehearsals for the band will soon be announced.

The College Jazz Tones was a popular jazz group on the campus last year. Those interested in playing in a jazz group for dances and entertainments should watch for further announcements.

Lutheran Colleges all over America have always been famous for their choirs. W.L.U. is no exception and Mr. McClain will soon whip a choral group into shape that will carry our fame to many cities.

N. D. P.'s Never Say 'Die'

Campus Party leaders also helped to keep "Politics" a lively topic for discussion upon Campus. The leader of one of our four parties, evidently a refugee from Economics 20, gained undying fame by his delightful statement that "Tis better to have 8% unemployed than creeping inflation." However, not to be outdone, yet another of our distinguished party leaders was heard to say, "Woe, woe, we trade more with the Reds than with our friends." He will certainly be ineligible for an all expense paid trip to Cuba if he keeps this up.

Despite the occasional faux-pas, all of the party leaders on campus performed their tasks with ability and enthusiasm; they helped to create a stimulating atmosphere for politics on campus, which in later years will be remembered by many. The politician-clubs and the Politics Club (supported by neutrals) are to be congratulated for their excellent treatment of Politics on campus. They have made Politics one of the more entertaining and enlightening extra-curricular activities on campus.

This year, Model Parliament will be held again and will be of even more interest due to the current situation at Ottawa. I hope that all of you Freshmen, and pensioners will join or continue to support the party of your choice on campus.

Student Directory

Within a very short time the Student Directory will be going to press. The S.D. is a small booklet which contains the names, home and local addresses, and telephone numbers of all students on campus.

The information for this book is gathered from the cards which you fill out on registration day. In order to ensure that the S.D. will be as accurate as possible, be sure that all information on your card is complete and correct.

Many volunteers are needed to ensure that the S.D. will appear with a minimum of delay. Typists and proof-readers are needed immediately. Contact the editor, Betty Lipskie, and offer your services now!

New Biology Department

The appointment of Dr. Duncan A. MacLulich as chairman of the newly formed biology department marks a kind of renaissance, a re-birth of science coming into its own again, for the first time since the dissolution of the union with our unnamed rival over the hill. Apart from being a symbol, Dr. MacLulich is a very fascinating personality. He received his B.Sc. and his Ph.D. from the University of Toronto. A man of wide and varied experience he did field and laboratory studies in Northern Ontario for the University of Toronto and the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests for twelve years. He also served on the Faculty of the University of Toronto as demonstrator in Biology and as a Bacteriologist at the Mountain Sanatorium in Hamilton. Then came the challenge of World War II. From 1940 to 1960 Dr. MacLulich served with the Royal Canadian Air Force as an instructor and as acting director in charge of instruments and electronic systems at R.C.A.F. headquarters in Ottawa. During his dual career in biology and aeronautical engineering he has completed over 30 publications and held many professional memberships. Thus with great pride, we welcome Dr. MacLulich.

Dr. MacLulich of our newly formed biology department introduces a member of his staff to Diny Bakker of the Office of Information. The chap he is introducing is named "Charlie" and he will be hanging around the biology lab for the rest of the term. Diny has promised to take Charlie down to the Torque Room so that Betty can fatten him up with some of her famous malted milks.

Take Us to Your Leader

Wheels On Campus

BUSY BAKER

That good-looking fellow with the pipe stuck in the corner of his mouth is one guy that many girls will really "go-for" this year. In addition to being the V.-P. of the Soph. Class, Brian Baker is the man who will have complete responsibility for producing this year's P. & G.

Last year Brian came to W.U.C. from Western and immediately established himself as a fellow who could be depended upon to do a real tremendous job. He was stage manager of last year's show, treasurer of the Frosh Class, and a dedicated member of Circle K.

Between his two big jobs for this year Brian is planning on saving a little time for that stiff second year of Business Administration.

ACTIVE ARCH

As chairman of the Undergrad. Society and its representative on the Student Council, Archie Mclean is going to have a very full year. In addition to this he will spend the first few weeks of the year acting as Chairman of the newly created Student Union Board of Governors.

During his two years at W.U.C. Arch has been Business Manager of Kampus Kapers, an active supporter of the P.C. Club and its leader in the Model Parliament last year. He is one of the few students on campus who possesses a considerable amount of quiet, yet determined leadership.

During the coming year Archie will spend much of his time plowing through the gigantic number of cases in that third year Business Programme.

LOVABLE IRENE

Down in Hamilton, right now, Irene Posluszny, is being wound up for another hectic, non-stop year at W.U.C. During the coming year "greedy Irene" will be editor of that great campus institution, the Keystone. In addition she will serve as a member of the Board of Publications, as president of W.U.S., as its representative on the Student Council, will organize Treasure Van, and will be in as many other activities as is inhumanly possible.

Irene has one rule that she never breaks. Always on the night before a test she takes a few minutes out from her busy schedule to cram. What's she done in the past?—Everything.

It's A Fact!

- ... that when fall arrives "a young man's fancy turns to football".
- ... that the students at W.U.C. enjoy watching and playing football.
- ... that the Golden Hawks won the football league championship last year.
- ... that the team has been at football camp for one week under the driving charge of Coach, Bob Celeri.
- ... that the first game is with the U. of W. at Seagram Stadium on Friday, September 21, at 8:00 P.M.

... that the teams play better when supported by the student body.

The Waterloo Golden Hawks would like to add two new facts this year; One, that they are going to be victorious over the Warriors, and two, that they will improve over last year's record.

It's About The Blue Book

That Blue Book, as we anticipated, has met with varied reaction from students, parents and householders. It is doubtless not perfect in its present form and we propose to call for constructive criticism and suggestion at a future date. In the meantime I would like to explain something of its background.

For many years it has been the policy of Waterloo University College to investigate the housing occupied by women students living off campus to ensure that it was adequate. This was possible, partly, because of the relatively smaller number of women students enrolled at the College. However, for the six years since I came to the College, no such attention has been extended to the men students living off campus. This has been due in part, no doubt, to the rapid growth of the campus population—expansion on our campus alone might have caused some strain on the housing situation in the Twin Cities, but in addition, there has been a pressure exerted on housing by another institution in the area. Despite this competition for available space, the matter of more adequately inspecting and approving housing for men students has been under consideration for some time. Perhaps the idea bore fruit more quickly than otherwise possible because of certain incidents in both Kitchener and Waterloo where concentrations of students living with no supervision behaved in such a way as to reflect no credit on themselves or on the College, and academic standards were generally rather low.

As an institution of Christian higher education, Waterloo Lutheran University operates on a philosophy that each student who registers for study here shall be encouraged to achieve the highest possible standards academically, morally and socially. Whether you appreciate the fact or not, the institution stands 'in loco parentis' while you are studying here, and that is a responsibility not to be taken lightly. The administration has done its utmost to provide competent and stimulating instruction in your classes. Due to a shortage of classroom space we may be forced into a little more 'togetherness' and more extended hours of classes than some of you may appreciate, but this is part of the growing pains and, we trust, will be remedied for the 1963-64 academic year. Morally we hope that administration, faculty and staff as a good example of Christian practice for actions speak far louder than words. Much more adequate provision is being made on campus this year for social and athletic activities with a new Student Union Building and Theatre-Auditorium now completed. But behind all this lies the important item of adequate every-day living. We feel that a system of approved housing off campus, and "that blue book" a frame of reference between student, householder and the College should contribute toward happier living off campus, and thus to a more satisfactory total College experience.

You may feel the rules laid down in this book are too strict. Until we learn self-discipline we are never truly free. These rules are a good guide to self-discipline and are recommended for your thoughtful consideration as the educational leaders of tomorrow rather than the so-called thoughtless self-centered college students of today.

If you do have problems with housing this year and you feel I can be of help I would appreciate your coming for an interview. Not all housing has been inspected so far, but the job continues and will doubtless continue all year.

ESTHER BRANDON
Dean of Women

Clear Your Events

Returning students and faculty will remember occasions last year when they were forced to choose between two major events scheduled for the same evening or same hour. On the other hand, days passed with no major events. This year an effort is being made to minimize such conflicts and to furnish a balanced cultural and social program. The co-operation of all students and faculty who are responsible for planning events is essential.

The control of the calendar of events of the University will be localized in the office of the Assistant to the President, Miss Arlette Pederson. All events, tentative and definite, should be cleared through her office and will be published in a calendar of events, "This Year at Waterloo Lutheran University".

Vive La Difference

Well, it's that time of year again when those of us who have been here before have to sit down and patiently explain to all ignorant newcomers just what the differences are between all the institutions of higher learning in the K-W. area. Here is what all Frosh must know before they may be-cap next Saturday night.

In 1911 the Lutheran Church founded a small seminary in what is now Conrad Hall. Total assets were about $30,000. The purpose of this seminary was to create a supply of Lutheran ministers who would later become the faculty of W.U.C. It responded to the challenge by producing Dean Schaus, Profs. Schultz, Durst, Little, & Little, and many more now on our faculty. Later, arts courses were added; whereupon we joined the University of Western Ontario as an affiliated college. In 1960 we attained autonomous status under the corporate name of Waterloo Lutheran University. Its two component parts are the arts college, Waterloo University College, and the old "Angel Factory" which has since moved into Willison Hall under the name of Waterloo Lutheran Seminary.

When you stay within the confines of the rectangle bounded by Albert, Bricker, King, and University, you are entitled to all rights, privileges, and the sanctity of our institution.

Back about 1956 a group of men had a blurred dream, a distorted vision. They started the Associate Faculties of Waterloo College which immediately set out to teach co-operative Engineering. At the time the Associate Faculties were associated with Waterloo College as we were then known. Now the name Cooperative Engineering is a bit of a misnomer.

Businesses supported the scheme that turned out partly educated "plumbers" (you must learn to say that word with an appropriate curl of the upper lip) that were good only for odd tasks and "joe" jobs. Their original students proved unco-operative and nearly all flunked out. The Associate Faculties proved unco-operative and then left to found the University of Waterloo. And rumour has it that the provincial government could become unco-operative by cutting down on those substantial yearly grants . . . so much for co-operation.

Most "plumbers" upon enrolling in their courses are brain-washed (oriented). They are taught that they are superior to Arts Men. The U of W administration realized the fallacy of this type of thinking and has recently set out to create its own Arts Men. You see they just can't tell them to look up to us. For then all their people would want to come over here and they wouldn't have anyone left.

Two churches, realizing the acute housing problem, have built residences over there under the name of colleges. Actually all of their students are taught by U. of W. professors in U. of W.'s Arts Building.

Our older professors and students have taken a paternal interest in the baby, born on our campus, who later moved over the hill to the other side of the tracks. As a parent we have taken an interest in the growing pains of our child. Of course the pain has been deadened by Dr. Robarts with his annual multi-million dollar prescriptions. Quite a drug, eh!

Student Council

President's Message:

There will, however, be larger ones. It is your duty to prepare the way for those who follow. First step is academic success. The second is extra-curricular. Clubs, organizations, and groups on campus exist for the purpose of the free exchange of ideas. Pick the one or two of your choice and attend them with the idea of not only how much you may benefit from them, but how much they may benefit from your presence and ideas.

During your first week on campus you will be subjected to initiation by the Sophomore Class. Perhaps a few words of explanation are in order. Initiation can be viewed as mere humiliation or as just another test. It is best considered as a combination of both. Those who attend university should be proud of the psychological and intellectual adjustment they have made from one academic and social plane to another. For each and every one there is a varying amount of humiliation and frustration. Initiation is a compression of those two trials into a few days. How you conduct yourselves throughout initiation will determine your acceptance as a university student by those who have already made the grade. Good humour and good spirits will best see you through it, and the many other tests throughout your life. See that you never lose them.

To all, best wishes for a successful and profitable year.

Canadian Army Offers Opportunities To University Students

Professor Clark and some of the C.O.T.C. Members

By Professor James M. Clark

The Canadian Officer's Training Corps offers undergraduates an opportunity to qualify for commissions in the Canadian army, either Active or Reserve.

Winter training on campus consists of a two hour lecture one night a week during the academic year. Pay for the winter training is roughly $100.00.

Summer training is carried on at Corps Schools throughout Canada and consists of a minimum of twelve weeks or a maximum of twenty weeks. Pay for the summer training is $225.00 a month. At the end of the second year of training, opportunity is also available to train with Canadian forces in Europe during the summer. (A recent postcard from 2-Lt. Don Holmes was postmarked Istanbul!)

Summer training is taken with other University students from all across Canada. The first year is largely basic training; the second year is corps training on an officer level; during the third year the newly commissioned officer fulfils the functions of a fully qualified officer of the Canadian army.

Students interested in learning more about the Canadian Officers' Training Corps are welcome to discuss C.O.T.C. with the Resident Staff Officer, Major J. M. Clark, Room 211, Arts Building.

New Library Hours Announced

LOWER LIBRARY:

Monday-Friday
8:30 A.M.—5:30 P.M.
7:00 P.M.—10:00 P.M.

Returning students will notice that many changes have taken place in the location of various library facilities.

Reference books have moved from the Lower Library to the Inner Room of the Upper Library.

The Reserve Books and the Periodicals are in their same location.

Room 105 of Willison Hall, formerly the Board of Publications will now be an unsupervised study hall.

The Seminary Reading Room has moved from Room 210 to Room 103 Willison Hall.

Irene Needs You!

Irene is going to need help to put out the KEYSTONE. The Keystone is the yearbook put out by the student Board of Publications of Waterloo University College and it is a resume of student life on campus. This year the yearbook is going to be started early and during the month of September we will need typists, artists, and a layout committee to start work immediately. If you have had any experience or are willing to work on the 1963 Keystone, contact the editor immediately.

APPLY EARLY. AVOID THE RUSH TO HELP IRENE PUT OUT THE BEST YEARBOOK YET. PHONE, WRITE OR CALL:

IRENE POSLUSZNY, BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS, STUDENT UNION BUILDING.

Room 101, Willison Hall and the former dining hall will now be used as study halls when not being used for classes. Timetables will be posted for these rooms shortly.

Circulation and stacks are still contained in the Lower Library.

will be used as the site of the new Seminary Building which is due to be started shortly. As a result of this purchase W.L.U. now own all the land on the east side of Albert St., between University Ave. and Bricker St. In addition it owns the land on the north side of Bricker between Albert and Clayfield. W.L.U. was represented in the transaction by Wiebe and Bacher, Real Estate Brokers of Waterloo and Kitchener in this transaction of $144,200.

University Buys More Land

While we were busy early last May writing final examinations, the Board of Governors was also busy buying a small parcel of land fronting on Albert and Bricker Streets. The purchase consisted of six houses and the broom factory adjacent to Conrad Hall. The property area is 1.13 acres.

The transaction took place within a twenty-four hour period on May 2 and 3. The newly-acquired land

During informal talks with some members of the administration the Cord found that at least two of the houses will be torn down immediately in order to facilitate an early start being made on the Seminary Building. Some reports suggest that some of the houses on Bricker St. will be used as either small class-rooms or as residences until the construction of more adequate facilities.

What Does A President Do?

The President and Vice-Chancellor of the University, as the chief executive officer has ultimate responsibility for furnishing educational leadership and administrative direction for all academic, business, promotional and social activities. In this capacity he has final authority concerning the internal affairs of the University and is the link of communication between the Board of Governors and Faculties, staff and students. This means that the President is concerned with all areas of campus life, whether it be the adequacy of faculty and curriculum, the conduct, social and spiritual lives of students, the working condition of staff, the financing of buildings, food services or laboratories, or campus communication. Though his door is often closed in conference, yet his door is always open to all regardless of the nature or size of the concern.

Brilliant Footballer Killed

Bill Fedor

In the midst of the gaiety of returning to campus, we were all saddened to learn of the sudden death of Bill Fedor. Bill was killed in an automobile accident late in May, when the car in which he was riding, was in collision with another car travelling on Highway 93 near Midland, Ontario.

Bill entered the freshman class here last year after having attended high school in Niagara Falls. He was enrolled in the first year program of the General Arts course. But it was as a football player that Bill won the unqualified support of everyone for his outstanding performance on the field. He was the second highest scorer on the championship Waterloo Golden Hawks football team.

Only shortly before Bill's death, Coach Bob Celeri told Bill Haggstrom that he considered him to be an outstanding prospect for a pro football team and Mr. Celeri hoped that he could arrange a try-out for Fedor at the Montreal Alouettes training camp. The Cord staff and student body extend their most heartfelt condolences to Bill's mother and his many close friends.

Religion on Campus

When a student arrives on the campus of Waterloo Lutheran University and its Arts College, Waterloo University College, a look at the buildings does not seem to reveal that this is a Church-sponsored University, other than the Cross on the Arts Building. There is no special building dedicated to the use of worship and religious affairs.

Investigation reveals that there is a Music Room which can also be used as a Chapel. And in Willison Hall there turns out to be a small chapel for the use of Waterloo Lutheran Seminary. Nothing fancy, but useful. Here college students have Vespers each evening.

When classes begin, the student finds on the schedule a daily Chapel program, held each morning at 10 o'clock in the Auditorium. The liturgy varies from the informal to the formal, with the use of the morning suffrages and Matins. The speakers vary from the Chaplain and professors to local ministers and out-of-town speakers. A variety is offered with short meditations to more elaborate sermonettes. Some of these are inspirational and devotional, while others are of a more intellectual appeal. This chapel break in the morning schedule is a time for spiritual refreshment.

The student will soon be invited through personal invitation or announcements in the Cord Weekly and the bulletin boards to meetings of the religious societies. These include special speakers, debates, discussion groups, Bible study, Prayer sessions and dramatic presentations.

Once a year for a week there will be a "Focus on Religion" with an outstanding speaker leading the campus in a series of lectures and discussion groups. The thoughts aroused during this period will provide conversation and heated discussions for the bull sessions for several weeks.

Once a month the Tuesday Assembly period will be set aside for an outstanding speaker in the field of religion. And on Sunday each student will have an opportunity to visit the Church of his choice and join in the Young People's activities in the evening.

These are the outward manifestations of the religious life on the Campus. But much deeper than these is the atmosphere of spiritual concern and dedication that pervades the University Campus. Professors are always willing to discuss your problem with you. And certain individuals are available for counselling at any time—the Dean of Students, the Associate Dean of Students and the Chaplain.

And there is no reason to fear going to these people when you need help. Freshmen have lots of problems and adjustments. Most of these a person must work out for himself. It is a part of one's growth and development. But when the burden becomes too heavy to carry and is cutting in on your studies and the work you ought to be doing, then be sure to see one of the counsellors. They are here for you.

Even more significant is the certainty which pervades the life of the Institution. Too often the student is faced only with relativity and with many questions but no answers. As it is there will be many new ideas thrown at him, in such abundance that the student will reel from the impact. Old conceptions will be uprooted. Many will find their Sunday School religion entirely inadequate.

It is considered in most circles today that the ideal scholar is one who is unbiased and detached—neutral towards matters of value. Also, he obeys scientific procedures and he specializes in one limited fragment of his chosen field. But such a position is the living personification of the university's confusion. It leads to neutrality toward values and removes a person from all sense of responsibility of what is made use of the knowledge discovered by study and research.

Moreover, it should be emphasized that when convictions are omitted from teaching, the university is not being neutral; it is being negative. It is teaching that convictions do not matter in the intelligent life. If it does deal with them but sits on the fence, it implies that such decisions are not urgent; they are luxuries, overbeliefs, private fancies. The practical results of such a frame of mind is to maintain the status quo in politics and economics, to stand for relativism in morals and for irresponsibility in civic life.

This position is not possible. Every field of study requires presuppositions or what we might speak of as biases. To presume to be without bias is merely to add blindness to the previous bias. No student can be thoroughly objective because he shares the unframed, unconscious assumptions of his society, of his time in history and of his own special situation.

A university that does not take the responsibility of developing a philosophy of life along with the abundance of data, of equipping men and women with the will or the way to use the knowledge which has given them power, then it has been derelict in its primary task; it has refused really to educate. This Institution boldly declares the Christian Faith and permits the student to make his own decision concerning it. We believe it is the most vital decision he will make in his years on the Campus.

Greeting From Alum Prexy

By Bev. Hayes

Welcome future alumni members. You are entering an institution that is going to play a gigantic part, not only in the exciting years while you're here, but in every day of your future life.

You will find that your powers of learning and your knowledge are not the only facets of your life that are affected. During your stay here you will meet members of the alumni who are frequently prominent people in this community; people who will go out of their way to make you feel at home; people who are able to inform you about the exciting possibilities of the future and the part you can play. These people will affect your life too. Without knowing it they will play a large role in the development of your personality and the molding of your character.

You are now part of a growing, vital college. Your alumni association are looking forward to greeting you at the annual alumni re-union.

Arch The Chief

Freshettes who are planning for a secure future with all the necessities of life, such as mink coats and cadillacs should give serious consideration to Archie McLean. Archie is really big in campus activities.

If Dief the Chief had done as good a job in leading the Progressive Conservative Party on a national basis as Archie McLean did right here in Waterloo, Raoul Caouette would still be pushing rebuilt stock cars up in Abitibi. Archie not only has muscles in the political arena but he is also Chairman of the Undergraduate Society.

This year Archie will serve as Chairman of the Board of Governors of this University (the student Board of Governors of the Student Union Building). Please do not confuse this with the Waterloo Lutheran University Board of Governors—that board only built the University—this is the board that gives it life.

In his spare time Archie opens the odd text book, at least he opens them often enough to convince Dr. Overgaard, Chairman of the Business Administration Department, that no matter how low Diefenbaker pushes the buck, Archie will get his share.

Female student: "Boy, did I get initiated at the Coryphaeus Staff Party last year!... And I didn't even know his name!"

Vive La France

In an interview this morning, Madame Odile Martz-Perier, our new French lecturer, expressed great admiration for the freshmen headgear. "Tres joli . . . vraiment chic", she was heard to remark.

"Ze purple and ze gold are des couleurs tres beau". She has promised to pass this new creation along to her good friend, Yves St. Laurent, who now operates Christian Dior's Paris salon. We hope that Madame Perier does not have an opportunity of seeing what happens to a freshman who is caught without his chapeau. "Non, non, madame, the freshman without the chapeau is not tres gai today madame. He has the big tristesse."

Sophomores Lay Plans

A Cord staff reporter was invited to Dave Robertson's secret meeting of the initiation committee. We are happy to report to anxious freshmen that Mr. Robertson, the President of the sophomore class, seems to have a much more tolerant attitude towards freshmen than brutal Paul Enns who headed last year's initiation.

"I want no blood spilled on this campus", Robertson told the cheering sophomores. "A great deal of the grass damage on our front lawn was caused by freshmen blood being allowed to flow unchecked."

Officers of the initiation were appointed by President Robertson. John "Slugger" Safrance was named to the committee on gouging and kneeling. Brian "Elbows" Baker will assist him in groin kicking and mugging.

Lina "The Knife" Noecker was delegated to the emergency squad that will explain campus regulations in a most arbitrary manner to difficult freshmen. "Bloody" Mary Bowman made out the purchase orders for the castor oil and iodine. Chairman Robertson noted with pleasure that Hahn's Pharmacy will again extend wholesale prices for bandages, splints and other medications.

"Battling" Bob Armstrong and Fred "The Fierce" Burgess were given the duty of organizing the usual goon and muscle squads. Roger "The Dodger" Lillyman was put in charge of the make-up kit to touch-up freshmen who look too rough to send to class. Pete "The Enforcer" Rempel has been delegated to set up case histories of freshmen violating the conduct rules. Bob "Knuckles" McNeeley pleaded with the committee to keep the initiation going another week. "There just isn't time to work-over everybody in five days", he groaned, "even though I have been practising all summer". Chairman Robertson showed movies from last year's initiation and several sophomores, overcome with emotion, had to leave the room when they saw the fate of Joseph Ridell of Fergus. However, those who were able to remain right through agreed with Dave when he named Kim Marsland the most sadistic initiator ever to come to Waterloo. Dave explained to his henchmen that whereas the names of Paul Enns and Kim Marsland were inscribed in the annals of inhuman cruelty forever more, it was not necessary for this year's sophomores to go quite that far.

Spring Convocation Honours Four with Degrees

Last May 19, over fourteen hundred friends and relatives jammed Mutual Life Auditorium to witness the largest convocation in the history of Waterloo Lutheran University. Graduates sweltered under the weight of their academic robes while their families fanned themselves during the ceremony. Emergency equipment stood by to receive those who fainted—none did.

Receiving their Honour and Pass B.A. degrees were one hundred and five graduates of Waterloo University College. In addition, eight graduates of Waterloo Lutheran Seminary also received their degrees.

The convocation address was delivered by the first Premier of Newfoundland the Honourable Joseph Recipients of honorary degrees at the Spring Convocation. Left to right: the Hon. Joseph R. Smallwood of Newfoundland (loud cheers from the Liberal Party); Wm. H. Stackel of Rochester, a distinguished Lutheran layman; Miss Helen Allison, retiring registrar of the University of Western Ontario; and Dr. Diamond Jenness of Ottawa, Canada's greatest living expert on our people of the North.

R. Smallwood, who journeyed to Waterloo especially to receive an honorary degree. Because of the imminence of the federal election Mr. Smallwood was asked to refrain from delivering a biased political address. With this in mind he dealt with the story of Newfoundland's entry in confederation.

Mr. Smallwood received his degree of Doctor of Laws, Honoris Causa, for his great contribution to education in his native province.

In addition to Dr. Smallwood, honorary degrees were awarded to Dr. Diamond Jenness of Ottawa, Wm. H. Stackel of Rochester, New York and to Miss H. M. B. Allison of London, Ont.

A native of Wellington, New Zealand, Dr. Jenness received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Oxford University. On May 9th of this year Governor-General Vanier presented Dr. Jenness with the 1962 Massey Medal of the Royal Geographical Society in recognition of his scientific expeditions in search of material for his works on Indians and Eskimos.

Mr. Stackel has been closely associated with the administration of the Lutheran Church in America for over forty years and has served many terms on the Church's Investment Commission and the Board of Higher Education.

Miss Allison, has served her Alma Mater, the University of Western Ontario for the past forty years. During the past fifteen years Miss Allison has been Registrar of the U. of W.O. During the same period she was secretary of the university Senate and a member of many university Committees.

Big Year In Athletics Coming

Waterloo presents a comprehensive selection of sporting activities throughout the year. Football holds the spotlight in the early part of the year until the end of October, when bowling, both five and ten pin, fencing, and table tennis carry the sports-minded into the winter with hockey, basketball and skiing.

Last year the football edition of the Golden Hawks was very successful, becoming the league champions (for the first time in school history) by remaining undefeated during their six game schedule. We are fortunate to have Bob Celeri again as the head coach of the team. His colourful football history: twice All-American at U of California, three years in the N.F.L. with the Dallas Cowboys and New York Giants and four years with the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, gives ample illustration of his outstanding ability in the task of coaching our team. Most of the team is returning this year to mention a few, quarterback Bill Miller, halfbacks, Dave Lennard, Doug Drynen and Ted Favot and linemen Bob Erwin, Paul Reader and Don Barill, so we can look forward to a good season of football, which by the way, starts on Sept. 21 at Seagram Stadium under the lights, against the Waterloo Warriors, our engineering rivals down the road.

I would also like at this time to welcome Mr. Richard Buendorf to Waterloo on behalf of the Cord Staff. He comes to us from the U of

Everyone Loves A Sailor

We are used to seeing our efficient Dean of Women rushing hither and yon making life miserable for land lords with low amperage light bulbs and unhygienic garbage disposal units but we only just found out that Miss Esther Brandon has a secret in her life. Every summer when we are all safely off campus, our Dean of Women is all at sea. We haven't figured out whether it's a promotion or a demotion, but Dean Brandon becomes Lieutenant Brandon. She holds a commission in the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve and has been keeping Canadian waters free from enemy shipping since 1957.

Our photograph shows Dean Brandon ringing seven bells at H.M.C. Cornwallis in Deepbrook, Nova Scotia. They used to ring eight bells but the austerity program has infected the navy.

Miss Brandon says that girls with a degree who want to join the navy and see the world (or sailors) can get a commission right away. Your Cord reporter was informed that navy recruiting officers will be coming on campus shortly to explain students the benefits of R.O.T. the Regular Officers Training Program.

Minnesota where he spent three years in the Intramural office and taught swimming. Prior to this he attended Gustavus Adolphus University in Minnesota which he led to spend two years in the 11th Airborne Division. In 1958 Dick graduated from U of Minn. with a B.S. in Physical Education and received his M.A. in P.E. the following year. Mr. Buendorf will be working with Bill Haggstrom, our athletic director, and between the two of them we can expect a full program of sports in the coming year.

Our College teams are only as good as the support we can give them. Last year the fans were few in number, this fall I urge as many as possible to get out and give the Hawks incentive to win the Championship again.

During the summer months, while we are away, those who remain must do many things to keep this rapidly expanding University moving along the right road. The Cord photographer dropped in one hot July day and was surprised to see how versatile the Waterloo Lutheran University organization can really be.

When we stopped by the Office of Information, we caught Ernie Kaiser hard at work writing a thesis on Sanitary Engineering for the Plumbers Digest. Miss Bakker, usually found in the Torque Room and sometimes in the Office of Information, seemed to be off campus until we found her out in the back running a farm tractor. Diny says that this keeps her in shape during the summer. After spreading it around all winter, she says that brightening the campus lawn keeps her in practise. You drive, Diny and I'll shovel.
